LOOK OUT FOR.....Pink Footed Geese thousands flying overhead in November/December. See this amazing sight and hear their noise at approx 7.30 - 7.45 am and 4ish in the afternoon as they go home to roost. The pink-footed goose is a medium-sized goose, smaller than a mute swan but bigger than a mallard. It is pinkish grey with a dark head and neck, a pink bill and pink feet and legs. This species does not breed in the UK, but large numbers of birds spend the winter here, arriving from their breeding grounds in Spitsbergen, Iceland and Greenland. Numbers in England are on the increase, particularly in Norfolk, probably due to better protection at winter roosts.
